Chamber set for new year

An all-time membership record was disclosed at Monday night's Board of Directors meeting of the Appomattox County Chamber of Commerce, the first meeting of 1983 for the organization.

Chamber President Jim Nolen noted that the membership slate has reached 90 in one year's time, only ten short of what board members considered the maximum obtainable goal of 100 when the chamber was re-organized a year ago.

Lloyd Vaughan, chairman of the chamber's membership committee, said that he was disappointed that the membership total had not reached 100 in the first year, but noted that the new membership record is a good indicator of revived interest in the Chamber of Commerce.

Vaughan added that he feels the 100-member mark, once considered the maximum membership figure attainable, should be reached and surpassed in the coming year.

Nolen commended the membership committee's efforts, noting that "to have 90 members after a year like 1982, which was economically difficult for a lot of people, is remarkable."

Nolen added that many of the membership renewals, which don't come due until mid-March, have already been submitted for 1983.

In a related matter, John McHale, distributive education coordinator at Appomattox County High School, reported that the Appomattox County business directory which his students have been preparing is within approximately one week of completion.

McHale noted that all of the research for the directory has been completed, but the information has not been completely typed yet.

He noted that each Appomattox County business represented in the directory will be listed by name, and the listing will include the business' owner, address, hours of operation, phone number, and a brief description of the business.

McHale said that the businesses are being arranged in alphabetical order. He agreed to have the listings grouped according to the various categories into which the businesses fall.

Numerous requests have been made for copies of the completed directory, McHale noted, and because of the size of the document, considerable expense will likely be incurred for mailings.

Board members decided to research the possibility of having the directory printed professionally, and charging a fee for copies to cover the cost of printing and mailing.

The directory, which includes part-time businesses as well as regular businesses throughout the county, will be a valuable aid in recruiting new members for the chamber, according to Nolen.

McHale added that a second public-service project which his students have been conducting has been successful, as well.

More than 800 copies of a consumer survey seeking public opinion on whether an Appomattox downtown renovation project should be undertaken have been completed and returned for analysis, according to McHale.

He said distributive education students have been used in conducting the survey, in cooperation with the VPI Extension office in Appomattox County.

The results of the survey are being processed at Virginia Tech, according to McHale.

TOM SHUPE (left) of the Concord Volunteer Fire Department, surveys the wreckage of a tractor-trailer can in which a Suffolk truck driver died in an accident early Monday. Thomas I. Clemons, the driver, was killed when his rig toppled down an embankment on Mt. Athos Road east of Lynchburg. Clemons, who was apparently lost, was trying to turn his tractor-trailer around when he drove partially off the road and the weight of the load he was carrying for a meat-packing company shifted, causing the vehicle to fall into the ravine. Units from the Concord Volunteer Rescue Squad and Fire Department, and the Lynchburg Lifesaving Crew responded to the accident, which was reported around 1:30 a.m. The wreckage had not been totally cleared until 6 p.m. Monday. SRA tests slated for county students Beginning on March 14th and continuing throughout the next two weeks, the state mandated SRA Achievement Test Series will be given to students in the 4th, 6th, 8th, and 11th grades. Parents are asked to be particularly aware of these testing dates so that they can see that their children attend school, are well rested, and arrive at school on time during these weeks.

These tests are given each year to all students in specific grades throughout the State of Virginia. The results of the tests provide important information to students, parents, and school personnel about the status of individual students in attaining academic skills and knowledge considered important nationwide. In addition, the results provide data to the general public about the success of schools in fulfilling their educational mandate. County school personnel also use the information to identify specific strengths and weaknesses in the local instructional program. Parents and students will receive copies of the test results before the school session is over.

School personnel invite parents who have any questions about the tests to contact them.

Appomattox Countian honored in Lynchburg

Harry S. Ferguson, Appomattox County native, educator, author, and historian was honored in Lynchburg on Sunday, Feb. 20 when members of the Diamond Hill Baptist Church celebrated "Harry S. Feruson Day."

Ferguson was born in Appomattox County in 1903, the son of William and Sarah Ferguson. He joined Diamond Hill Baptist Church in 1921 and served as church clerk for 40 years. The Rev. Haywood Robinson is pastor of the church. Ferguson had been one of Robinson's high school teachers.

Born in the 1870's Ferguson's father received the equivalent of a fourth grade education, but he was the kind of man who read everything he could get his hands on. When his son, Harry, began school, the father would read his son's school books, constantly acquiring more knowledge.

Harry S. Ferguson earned his first college degree from the Virginia Theological Seminary and College in 1925. In 1929 he and Eleanor White Ferguson met in Lynchburg and were married in New York where he worked during the summers aboard steamboats to earn enough money to go back to college.

In 1944 he received a bachelor's degree in social science and in 1950 a masters from Virginia State College, now Virginia State University. In 1974 Virginia Seminary and College gave him an honorary doctorate of literature.

He taught for 10 years in Campbell County and 20 years at the Old Dunbar High School complex where he was principal of the Dunbar Junior High School for five years. In 1971 he taught, "Americans From Africa," a graduate course at the University of Virginia.

At Diamond Hill Baptist Church this past Sunday morning, Ferguson was the featured speaker at the 11 a.m. service. At 6 p.m. a testimonial program/reception was held in his honor.

By CALVIN ROBINSON

On the West Coast everyone is welcoming a visit by British Royalty. In Virginia we are welcoming March and its 31 days of opportunity. On Martha Street we had no formal committee to say goodbye to February. Just sort of a forgive and forget situation. Most of us made it in good shape and are getting up things to do when Spring arrives.

Thanks to Miss Laura Walton, local student leader, for copies of The Daily Oklahoman and the Dallas Morning News. She was a Virginia representative at a recent 4-H Club gathering, I think in Oklahoma City.

• • •

My long time friend, Walter E. Rodhe, Jr., of Cumberland, was by to give me a collection of pictures, interesting items, such as a World War II ration book, tokens, political buttons and autographs.

• • •

Appomattox is fortunate to be a Growing Town, with many new residents and visitors. Just met Joe Granier, of Baltimore, who is helping in the agriculture department at the Middle School. VPI man. Welcome.

• • •

And I asked Miss Ute Riesenkonig where she was from and the answer: Germany. Near the border with Luxemburg. She came to the US as a student and her interest, Home Economics. Again, Welcome. Had found time to visit our National Park Service historic area and we wish her a pleasant stay in our bit of the USA.

Found in an old Bible in My Den - the church bulletin and order of service of the First Baptist Church, Norfolk, Va. of Feb. 7, 1915. Gee, I may have a record for oldest church bulletin. Dr. John Roach Straton was pastor. And how about his sermon subject that Sunday - Isaiah 25-26, "Short Beds and Narrow Covers." This item obviously came from papers of my late father, who was ordained to the ininistry from that church.

Do birds communicate? Of course. A chickadee flew to my windowside feeder and finding there was food available, flew off to fetch his mate and/or friends and soon there were half a dozen eating away.

ACHS has surely had one of its best basketball seasons and several of the players should be collegebound. Excitement is building for the approaching ACC tournament.

Sign of approaching Spring: car washing in driveways and yards.

Big circus in Richmond March 8-13. Ringling Bros. and Barnam and Bailey, 113th edition.

A good punch line or sign-off line is difficult. How difficult? Well, how about as difficult as a cruise of TV's Love Boat, the Pacific Princess, on the Upper Appomattox River. Or this, as difficult as me being the first to have garden ripe tomatoes.

Thanks for reading and seeya around.
